3 Allied Envoys Continue Talks

MOSCOW, Aug. 9—The three Western ambassadors in Moscow conferred today before an expected third Kremlin visit regarding the German controversy.

Frank Roberts, special envoy of British Foreign Secretary Bevin, and French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau went to the U. S. embassy to talk with U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith.

Indications point to another session with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov later today.

There was little expectation that any results of the current East-West negotiations will be made public immediately. What little information that leaked from the security blackout indicated that many more conferences will be needed before basic agreements are achieved.

ENVOYS of the United States, Britain and France reportedly received new instructions from their governments over the weekend.

They are expected to ask for another interview with Molotov today to present the West's latest proposals.

Meanwhile, there was no indication that the Berlin blockade will be relaxed to speed the negotiations. The Moscow Literary Gazette, in one of the few current Soviet comments on Berlin, insisted that the blockade is a "legend."

Informed diplomatic quarters believe that Molotov, in his meeting with the Western representatives Friday night, flatly refused to lift the blockade until the West yields its plans to set up a separate West German state.

The West is reportedly still firm in its insistence that no talks on the German problem can take place "under duress"—that is, while the Soviet blockade continues.

And the Russians are reportedly equally firm on their insistence that the problem of Berlin cannot be considered apart from the problem of Germany as a whole, and that agreement on Germany must precede agreement on Berlin.

Berlin Papers Claim Soviet Troops Massing

BERLIN, Aug. 9—Berlin newspapers reported today that the Red army is feverishly fortifying the boundaries of its occupation zone with the help of conscripted German labor battalions.

The reports said that Russian tank units, equipped with rocket guns of the "Katuska" type, have been rushed to the western zone borders.

Publication of the reports in Western sector newspapers coincided with a renewed Russian attempt to convince Germans that the Western Allies are preparing to abandon Berlin.

The British-licensed Telegraph said that work on the Russian fortifications continues long after dark nightly. It added that Russian troops supervising the construction set off 28 forest fires last month.

THE REPORTS placed Russian military strength in the Soviet zone at some 330,000 men. Of these, there are eight infantry (Continued on Page Two)

UN Observers Hurt In Greece

ATHENS, Aug. 9—Two United Nations observers in Greece were reported wounded today during a rebel mortar shelling near the Greek-Yugoslav border. The two officers were identified only as United States Lt. Col. Darnell and British Maj. Fielding. The extent of their injuries was not given.

PART OF THE $190,000 WORTH OF DIAMONDS found in the valise of Mrs. Fanny Keller of Chicago are examined by U. S. Customs Inspector James A. Ham (left) and Agent Abraham Eisenberg in New York City. Mrs. Keller and Helen Lust of New York were apprehended at La Guardia airport and charged with attempted smuggling.

'Non-Political' Session Of Congress Is Demanded

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Sen. Morse, (R) Ore., asked congressional leaders today to call a "non-political" session in November.

Morse declared that such a session would function effectively after the November election, silencing political strife.

The Republican made the suggestion as members returned home from the special session and President Truman reportedly prepared a statement blasting them for failure to enact his legislation program.

It was reported that Mr. Truman will sign reluctantly the mild GOP anti-inflation and housing bills and issue a statement denouncing them as inadequate.

The 13-day special session which ended Saturday night ignored the President's demands for wage-price controls and standby rationing authority.

Congress adjourned until Dec. 31 but there was talk of an early start by whatever administration is elected in November.

ACTING Majority Leader Wherry, (R) Neb., hinted that a special session is possible. He declared that "if the occasion requires it I am sure that the

Tobin Ponders Truman Offer

SCITUATE, Mass., Aug. 9—Maurice J. Tobin was faced today with the most difficult decision of his political career.

The former governor must decide on acceptance of the post of secretary of labor in the cabinet of President Truman or continuing his campaign for another term in the governor's office.

At his Summer home here, the former governor and mayor of Boston said he was considering the offer of the cabinet post, but that he would continue in the gubernatorial race until he confers with the President.

12 Persons Lost In Heavy Seas

LONDON, Aug. 9—Twelve persons were known drowned today in a 70-mile-an-hour gale which lashed the English channel throughout the weekend.

Eight persons drowned when a French trawler capsized off Brittany, and four others were lost in the sinking of a pleasure yacht off the island of Guernsey.

Mountainous seas breached flood walls at several points, inundating two English coastal towns and forcing 2,000 vacationers to flee.

Ex-Russian Teacher Lashes Soviet For War Atmosphere

NEW YORK, Aug. 9—A former Soviet teacher dropped back into hiding today after blasting the Russian government with a statement to the FBI in which he accused the Soviets of "creating the atmosphere for a new war."

The Russian, Mikhail Ivanovitch Samarin, was in seclusion again after being "missing" since Aug. 1 when he was to have returned to the Soviet Union.

In his statement to the FBI, Samarin asserted the Soviet government "inculcated their people in Russia with a misunderstanding and hatred of the American people."

He said he did not want to return to Russia because he believes the Soviet government is harmful to his country. He appealed to government authorities and the American people for sanctuary in this country.

SAMARIN was the second of three "missing" Russian teachers to show up. The first, Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina, appeared at the Russian consulate's office in New York with a bizarre story of being kidnaped by anti-Communist White Russians and rescued by Soviet authorities.

The name and whereabouts of the third teacher is now known. Samarin may appear before the House UnAmerican Activities Committee investigating a Communist spy conspiracy. Mrs. Kosenkina was reportedly at the Soviet consulate in New York.

Samarin declared that the Soviet government would attempt to discredit his statement and "make me appear a traitor to my country."

He denied he was a traitor and declared he was motivated in making the statement "voluntarily" and only after concluding that the Soviet regime was harmful to Russia and world peace.

Samarin's emergence from hiding was the latest turn in the wild battle of White and Red Russians which Saturday saw Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina "rescued" from anti-Communists by Soviet consulate officials.

MRS. OKSANA, who Munt said vanished when she was about to reveal "Soviet plans for world aggression," was reported "resting" at the Russian consulate in New York.

Samarin appeared at the FBI office reportedly on the advice of friends who urged him to seek "protection."

Munt said he was informed of the Russian's action by Police Chief Walter Liebert of Clarks-town, N. Y., who is investigating the "kidnaping" of Mrs. Kosenkina.

Liebert also said that Samarin's wife and three children are hiding in another "anti-Communist refuge" near Freehold, N. J.

Samarin's surrender came as another figure in the device case offered the conjecture that Mrs. Kosenkina may have been masquerading as a (Continued on Page Two)

War I, War II Candidates Pitted In Legion Election

COLUMBUS, Aug. 9—The Ohio department of the American Legion will elect officers today and announce the best organization appearing in a two-hour parade that brought a crowd of 40,000 to the Columbus streets yesterday.

Today's election was expected to be a tense one because it marked the first time a World War II veteran was given serious consideration for the post of state commander.

J. D. Sawyer of Middletown is the newcomer. He will oppose Carl W. Smith of Kenton, a veteran of World War I. Both are now vice-commanders.

In the reviewing stand with the judges yesterday was the 46 bands and drum and bugle corps passed the state capitol were

Gov. Herbert and State Commander Aaron J. Halloran of Springfield.

One watching Legionnaire was taken sick as the drum majorettes, the bucking Model "T" Ford and the marchers as "The Spirit of '76" passed him by, and a Columbus woman spectator fainted.

AFTER the parade, the Legion met in extraordinary session to pass these resolutions:

1. A 600-bed veterans' administration hospital should be part of the $12,000,000 Ohio State university health center.
2. The Ohio bonus law should provide compensation to survivors of veterans who died of service-connected ailments, regardless of length of service.
3. Ohio congressmen should work for passage of the Mundt-Nixon Communist control bill.
4. Courses in automobile driving should be included in the curricula of all high schools.

National Commander James F. O'Neil of Manchester, N. H., delivered the principal address yesterday morning, stressing the importance of the Mundt-Nixon bill.

At a noon "commanders' luncheon," Vice-Admiral Robert B. Carney (USN), spoke on unification of the armed forces and the difficulties of effecting a meeting of the Army and Navy minds.

In resolutions passed yesterday morning, the Legion asked for pensions for all veterans over 55 years of age, national cemeteries near large Ohio population centers, strengthening of laws for soldiers' relief commissions, and free postage for VA hospital patients.

11,741,000 More Of Us Since '40

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—The Census Bureau reported today that the nation's population has increased by 11,744,000 since 1940 to a total of 143,414,000.

Thirty-nine states led by the West, gained in population. California paced the nation with a gain of 42.1 percent.

The report said that in the postwar period, the West continued to gain and the South, with the exception of Florida, continued to lose population through migration.

Final Agreement Still Lacking In Dayton Dispute

DAYTON, Aug. 9—The Univis Lens Co. management here was showing a spirit of independence today that prolonged a strike by the CIO United Electrical workers, now in its 97th day.

The union voted yesterday to approve a solution proposed the day before by U. S. Conciliator James McNamara of Cincinnati, but Company President M. H. Stanley would have none of it.

McNamara said the union approved the solution set up Saturday at a union-management attended by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert. It provided that:

1. The strike should end and all pickets should be withdrawn.
2. All workers should return without discrimination, with the exception of 11 men the company charged with "flagrant violations of the law."
3. The cases of the 11 men should be arbitrated.

McNAMARA said that when he told Stanley of this, the company president answered he "was not interested in any further proposals for settlement, but that the only thing he wanted to know was if the union had accepted his proposal."

Stanley's solution was similar to that accepted by the union

SEN. FERGUSON, Republican of Michigan, has suggested impeachment of President Truman as a way to unlock doors to confidential information on government employees who are suspects in his Communist spy probe.

Solon After Loyalty Data

Impeachment Idea Causes Uprow

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Sen. Ferguson, (R) Mich., renewed his demands on Attorney General Tom Clark and President Truman today for FBI loyalty information on William Remington.

Ferguson, chairman of a Senate investigating committee, told Clark that the group is "unanimous" in its demand for the files on Remington, suspended Commerce department official charged with helping a Russian spy ring.

The senator, who suggested Saturday that impeachment of Mr. Truman may be the only way of securing such data, wrote Clark a letter which he asked to be forwarded to the White House "at once."

Ferguson said he had written the attorney general again "to make certain that there is no misunderstanding as to what the committee wants and why we want it."

Ferguson pointed out that Remington moved from one government job to another long after he was accused of having given secret information to a Communist spy.

FERGUSON declared that his committee has "reliable information" that the FBI gave ample written notice to the agencies which put Remington in the key jobs.

Ferguson said that the Senate (Continued on Page Two)

Officials Seek Recovery Of Crash Victims

WIESBADEN, Aug. 9—Air Force officials today said the icy grip of the Alps may prolong recovery of a wrecked U. S. C-47 transport plane for more than a week.

The plane, carrying 22 persons, vanished last November on a flight from Pisa, Italy, to Frankfurt. The wreckage was discovered by Italian ski patrols two days ago in the snow-covered Alps south of Turin.

A special C-47 carrying a mountain climbing team, technicians and investigators, left today for Cuneo, Italy, near the scene of the crash.

Latest reports said the clothing of two officers and the effects of the only woman passenger, as well as belongings of the pilots, already have been found strewn around the wreckage.

The fact that only two bodies have been discovered appears to support the theory that many survivors lived a few days before inevitable death in the glacial wilderness.

Italian patrols which found the plane believe these bodies may be entombed under snow drifts still several feet high.

Perlo Fails To Deny Accusation

Miss Bentley Faces Wallaceite

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Victor Perlo, accused of heading a wartime spy ring, refused to repeat today a sworn denial of the charges after the question of perjury was raised.

He admitted he had been asked to resign from the government after his loyalty was investigated.

Perlo, appearing before the House UnAmerican Activities Committee, deleted from his prepared statement a sentence reading: "I vigorously deny the charges which have been leveled against me."

He deleted the sentence after the committee warned he would be liable to perjury charges if it is proved that he was acquainted or had dealings with his accuser, Elizabeth Bentley.

It was disclosed today that Perlo had made a denial of the charges at an executive meeting of an UnAmerican Activities subcommittee Saturday in New York.

MISS BENTLEY took the witness stand today and repeated the charges.

Perlo refused to say whether he knew the woman. He also refused to testify whether he is a Communist. He declared that either admission would tend to incriminate him.

Perlo was a federal statistician during World War II. He went on the government payroll with the advent of the New Deal in 1933. He is now employed by Henry Wallace's Progressive Party headquarters in New York.

Committee Chairman Thomas, (R) N. J., hinted at perjury proceedings after Perlo's refusal to say whether he knew Miss Bentley.

Asked to repeat, in Miss Bentley's presence, his denial of her charges, he refused to comply on constitutional grounds.

He said, however, that he did (Continued on Page Two)

2 Men Named To Peacetime Draft Board

Two men have been approved to serve on Pickaway County's peacetime draft board but the third man still remains to be selected.

Harold Bowers of Ashville, an employee of the state department of education, and Harry Puffinbarger, ex-mayor of Williamsport and farmer, have announced they would accept the post.

Recommendations for the county draft board were made to the state by a committee consisting of Judge William D. Radcliff of common pleas court, chairman; Probate Judge Sterling M. Lamb, and County Auditor Fred L. Tipton.

Appointment of a third member of the board must be made before youths from Pickaway County can begin registration for the draft here about Aug. 30.

While no definite date has been set for actual drafting of men, it was believed approximately 50 would be taken from this county if they are taken on the same basis used during World War II.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9—A 27-year-old Chicago holdup suspect can't seem to get away from his nemesis on the police force.

William Hankey disclosed during questioning that he had been wounded when he and a companion attempted to hold up an ice cream company July 28, but he escaped.

Sgt. Roy Coutre, who did the shooting, took one look at Hankey in the lineup and exclaimed: "Why, that's the man I shot eight years ago after he escaped from the guard house at Fort Sheridan!"

Dangerous New Spy Ring Said Now Under Probe

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The New York Journal American said today that another Communist spying, considered by the FBI as "dangerous," is being investigated by the House UnAmerican Activities Committee.

According to the newspaper, the spying was organized nine years ago under the leadership of Russian agents for the sole purpose of obtaining American military secrets.

The newspaper continued: "More important in scope than the underground Washington group exposed by Elizabeth Bentley and Whittaker Chambers, this espionage organization worked entirely separate from those in Washington."

"With the exception of the German Communist Gerhardt Eisler, who played a minor role in some of the Washington spying, none of the former New Dealers named by Chambers and Bentley were members of the 'military' ring."

No Wallace Petitions Here

A spokesman for Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel said Monday no petitions had been received from Pickaway County asking to place Wallace-For-President electors on the November ballot.

Saturday Hummel had announced that petitions were being sent to all 88 counties in the state. However, a check with the Pickaway County board of elections revealed no papers had been received here.

Petitions already received in the state office contain 36,207 names while only 23,038 valid signatures are needed to place the names of 25 electors on the presidential ballot.

not wish to repudiate his previous statement, but was availing himself of the "protection" of the fifth amendment to the Constitution.

Rep. Nixon, (R) Calif., admonished Perlo that by denying Miss Bentley's charges "you are, in effect, stating that Miss Bentley perjured herself."

After testifying nearly two hours, Perlo was excused and the hearing was recessed until later today, when Alexander Koral, described as "mystery witness who will break the Communist spy case wide open," will be heard.

MISS BENTLEY declared that she first met Perlo in the New York apartment of John Abt, a key figure in Wallace's third party movement.

In response to questioning, Miss Bentley stated that Perlo turned over to her such information as production figures on wartime equipment explaining that they were "listed by types of planes, fighters, bombers, transports."

The prosecution then told the committee that "we are prepared to show" that while Perlo was employed by the Resources Protection Board he was given "special permission" to copy "secret" wartime data on B-29s, tanks, ships and numerous other war equipment.

Miss Bentley was asked to name other persons who allegedly turned over wartime information to her. She cited Charles Kramer, Edward Fitzgerald and Edward Rosenberg, but did not otherwise identify them.

Miss Bentley characterized Perlo as the "most energetic one" in his group, although he was "rather nervous about the whole business."

She said he supplied her with "very little information" about B-29s but with "valuable" plans and statistics on war production.

All information secured from Perlo, she said, was turned over to either "Bill" or "Jack," her Russian contacts. She said she never saw Perlo in Washington but called him by telephone at one time to arrange a contact. She added that he was "disturbed" by the call.

Rep. Hebert, (D) La., asked questions that brought Miss Bentley's declaration that there were probably many spy groups in Washington.

NIXON brought out that in a statement submitted by Perlo to a subcommittee in New York Saturday there appeared this phrase: "I vigorously deny the charges that have been leveled against me."

When the congressman asked the witness whether he denied the charges made in his presence today by Miss Bentley, he refused to reply on constitutional grounds.

Nixon asked: "Do you repudiate that statement (Perlo's denial)?"

Perlo replied: "I by no means wish to repudiate that."

Rep. McDowell, (R) Pa., asked Thomas whether in view of Perlo's statement he would not be subject to perjury charges. Thomas said he thought perhaps he would.

4th Hit-Skip Mishap Reported

John W. Ford, 52, of Ashville Route 2; escaped injury early Sunday when his car was rammed by a hit-skip driver on Route 23, a mile north of Circleville.

The Ashville man lost control of his vehicle, careened across the road and crashed through a fence on the opposite side of the highway.

This was the fourth hit-run accident reported within the last two weeks, Pontius stated.

Tito Now Wooing Reds; Success Doubled By West

BELGRADE, Aug. 9.—Marshall Tito was reliably reported today attempting to win back Stalin's favor.

The Yugoslav chief is believed to have entrusted his deputy foreign minister, Alois Bebler, with the delicate task of wooing Andrei Y. Vishinsky, deputy Soviet foreign minister, as a preliminary step.

The routine now being followed is a standard one. Vishinsky, in Belgrade for the Danube conference, is being wined, dined, and flattered by the Slavs. At the same time he is being given their protests of undying loyalty to Stalin.

At the conference table, Bebler has lauded the Soviet Union at every opportunity. He authorized word to be spread among foreign correspondents that Yugoslav - Russian relations have improved since the end of the Yugoslav Communist Party's congress.

But Western diplomatic sources do not believe that the Yugoslav effort will succeed. They feel that the Kremlin will not take Tito back under its wing unless he acquiesces in complete Soviet domination of his country. Such a capitulation on Tito's part, it is thought is completely unlikely.

In addition, the Russians were said to have five infantry divisions with 20,000 men each, and 60,000 navy personnel just outside their zone.

Soviet Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, hero of Stalingrad, was said to have been named new commander of the West Russian forces, taking over Russian armies between Minsk and Insterburg, in East Prussia.

The Western-licensed German press reported further indications that the Soviet blockade is boomeranging.

It said the Russia zone trucking system is breaking down owing to a shortage of spare parts once supplied from the western zones.

The newspapers said the Russians therefore were unable to transport the usual quantities of fish from the Baltic sea to Berlin.

They added that the Klingenberg power plant in the Soviet sector which normally uses Ruhr coal has only four weeks' supply due to failure to get promised Polish coal shipments.

A three-block game of tag with two Circleville policemen made Edward Criss, 37, of the Chillicothe Veteran's hospital, "it" in the city calaboose Monday morning.

When Merriam arrived at the scene of the complaint, persons standing near pointed toward North Court street—"he went thataway." So did Merriam.

Merriam was joined in the chase later by Officer George Green, who had been walking toward the police station to report for duty. Between them they mousetrapped the man between Hargus Creek Bridge and Pleasant street on North Court street after a chase through the alleys and various back yards in the neighborhood.

The man was being held at the city lockup Monday afternoon pending arrival of authorities from the Chillicothe hospital.

"refugee" in order to spy on the Samarins.

This possibility was put forward by Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, who operates the cooperative farm from where the teacher was supposedly held captive.

Samarin, his family, and Mrs. Kosenkina were among 12 Russian teachers brought to America to instruct children of Soviet delegates attached to the United Nations.

THEY WERE ordered to return to Russia on July 31. On the night of July 30, Samarin, his family and Mrs. Kosenkina disappeared.

The Soviet consul, Jacob Lomakin, told a news conference that he, his deputy and his chauffeur were forced to "battle a dozen White Russians" to remove Mrs. Kosenkina from the Tolstoy farm, about 75 miles from New York.

But the countess, who branded Lomakin's version as a "lot of baloney" said the woman came to the farm voluntarily, seeking safety from Soviet orders to return home.

Rep. Nixon, (R) Calif., admonished Perlo that by denying Miss Bentley's charges "you are, in effect, stating that Miss Bentley perjured herself."

City Service Director Joseph Rooney said paint on parked cars may be damaged by the tar spreader. Court street is to be repaved from Pleasant street to the south corporation limits.

A request also was made by the service director for residents not to set trash along the curbs. He said it would require extra time and manpower to clear the rubble in advance of the spreading machines.

Bigamy Charged In Divorce Action Here

James W. Burt has been accused of bigamy in a suit for divorce filed by Eleanor Groom Burt, 20, in Pickaway County common pleas court.

The petition reveals that at the time the Burts were married on April 11, 1947, the defendant was married to another woman. The petition did not identify the alleged other wife.

Furthermore, the action declared Burt only recently was released from the Mansfield reformatory. Since then, the petition says, the couple has not lived together.

Since the time of the couple's marriage, it was stated Burt has failed to provide for the plaintiff. As a result, she is asking for reasonable relief and to be restored to her former name of Eleanor Groom.

This possibility was put forward by Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, who operates the co-operative farm from where the teacher was supposedly held captive.

Samarin, his family, and Mrs. Kosenkina were among 12 Russian teachers brought to America to instruct children of Soviet delegates attached to the United Nations.

THEY WERE ordered to return to Russia on July 31. On the night of July 30, Samarin, his family and Mrs. Kosenkina disappeared.

The Soviet consul, Jacob Lomakin, told a news conference that he, his deputy and his chauffeur were forced to "battle" a dozen White Russians from the Tolstoy farm, about 75 miles from New York.

But the countess, who branded Lomakin version as a "lot of baloney" said the woman came to the farm voluntarily, seeking safety from Soviet orders to return home.

WHO IS TELLING TRUTH?

Solon Scratching Head About Commie Statements

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Congressman Karl E. Mundt, the Communist-chaser from South Dakota, has been taking quite a bit of kidding lately for belaboring the obvious with a blunt remark.

But in a sense, you have to sympathize with him slightly, after trying to make head or tail out of the two congressional Red hearings—referred to by the President as "red hearings"—now being conducted on Capitol Hill.

The incident which caused Mundt to make the week's most obvious remark involved an ex-Communist and an ex-government worker. The former, Whitaker Chambers who now is a senior editor on Time magazine, said the latter, Alger Hiss who used to be a State department official, also used to be one of the top Communists in town.

He said a lot of other things—how he and Hiss were good friends and how Hiss cried when he, Chambers, quit the party and all that sort of thing.

When Hiss took the stand, he calmly, categorically and conclusively denied the whole works—lock, stock and barrel. Furthermore, he said he didn't even know Chambers and had never met him, but he certainly would like to confront that citizen.

THE TONE of his voice caused a reporter to comment that, properly managed, you certainly could sell a lot of tickets for such a meeting!

Anyhow, when it all was over, Mundt sat at the committee table and scratched his head while the reporters clustered around to get his comments. Finally he shook his head sadly and said:

Now, as was mentioned previously, Mundt has been kidded unmercifully about that remark, but the truth is that when you get right down to it, that sort of obvious conclusion is about all you can draw from this cockeyed investigating extravaganza these days.

Even old-timers at spotting phonies on the witness stand will admit they don't know who to believe in this business. For instance:

Miss Elizabeth Bentley named a handful of people whom she said are, or used to be, Communists. Almost without exception, they calmly denied her charges.

If they really were Communists, then you wouldn't expect them to tell the truth. But on the other hand, bear in mind that they were being accused solely by a person who admittedly was a Communist spy for years, who admittedly lied by the clock during those years, and who presumably (according to Mundt) had been promised immunity for turning state's evidence if she would name plenty of names.

Take another instance: Miss Bentley named a lot of other people who, she said, were not Communists themselves, but certainly were stupid 'dopes', ridiculously easy to dupe.

Several of those people climbed on the witness stand and, with broad grins, testified that Miss Bentley was one of the most stupid dopes they'd ever encountered.

ONE OF THESE, a fellow named William Remington, pointed out that she claimed he'd given her a secret wartime process for making synthetic rubber out of garbage. That, he said with a grin, was strictly from humor.

The committee checked the situation and, sure enough, Miss Bentley either had misunderstood mightily or else been beautifully duped on that one.

That's the way it has gone. Every time a piece of really hot testimony has popped out of the hearings, the person concerned has gotten on the stand and categorically denied it—and some of the squabbles have involved people pretty high up in the government.

It would be easier to try to decide who was lying in some of these cases, if there was a fistful of fresh supporting evidence, but unfortunately most of the provable evidence thus far presented has been surprising stale or vague.

BLENDING the humor and philosophy with a rich baritone singing voice, Tex Ritter, singer of folk songs, is coming in person to the Clifton Theatre with his New Western Revue and his horse, White Flash, Wednesday, for performances beginning at 2 p. m.

Town's Officers Killed By Man

YOUNGSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 9.—This tiny town was making arrangements today to bury its only two peace officers who were fatally shot in the line of duty.

Constable J. Thomas Caslin, 54, and Eugene Murphy, 45, justice of the peace, were shot down Saturday night when they attempted to serve a warrant charging assault and battery on William A. Smith, 36.

Smith was subsequently killed by state police inside his barricaded home.

Two peace officers went to the Smith home to serve the warrant at the request of Smith's 36-year-old wife, Genevieve, who said her husband had threatened her life.

2 Lake Ships In Collision

DETROIT, Aug. 9.—Two Great Lakes vessels docked for major repairs today following a Detroit river collision which nearly resulted in a major marine disaster.

The 10,000-ton ore carrying freighter E. M. Saunders Jr. collided with the loaded railroad car ferry, Detroit, 600 feet off the Canadian shore opposite Detroit's downtown area.

The impact of the collision tore a gaping 15 foot hole in the bow of the freighter and stove in the bow of the ferry, operated by the Wabash Railroad.

The crash dumped one of 23 freight cars aboard the Detroit into the river where it sank in the main shipping channel.

BIG CITY TROUBLES

WHENEVER officials of major cities get together to talk things over, they seem to find in common one very trouble some headache. In almost all of the states, big cities have a definitely minority representation in legislative bodies, and are engaged in a continuous quarrel with state governments over taxes and laws, mostly taxes.

The common accusation leveled at state legislatures by cities is that legislatures, dominated by rural representatives, levy taxes which hit city residents hard, but spend most of state funds in rural areas. This practice, they say, contributes to the higher tax level characteristic of city life.

In some instances conscientious revision of the representation system might help. In most states, however, any system of representation which is based on true distribution of population will produce a legislature in which rural area representatives are in the majority. The most promising remedy would seem to be a program of education on the interdependence of cities and rural areas, with the goal of a more co-operative spirit to replace bickering and tugging.

At a recent meeting of Ohio and Michigan city officials, Mayor George Welsh of Grand Rapids predicted that a new "Boston tea party" is likely to result from this modern "taxation without representation." It certainly would not be hard to find state-taxed items to be used as the "tea." But probably the beverage would not be very tasty.

MILK AND MARKETS

MILK, one of the most common and most nutritious of the staple foods, also is becoming an item of increasing significance in the family budget. And the present high cost of milk cannot be explained just in terms of inflation.

Like many other fresh foods, the marketing of milk has been revolutionized by modern transportation. Only a few years ago large cities drew their milk supply from the surrounding rural area. Now cities as far away as Boston, New York and Miami compete for the fresh milk of the Wisconsin dairy lands. All over the country there is a criss-cross of bidding for milk supplies, which seem to grow less as demands grow greater.

Inflation contributed to supply reduction as well as to recent price advances. With meat prices high, farm wages high and feed prices high, quick profits to be had from selling meat animals became more alluring than profits from milk production.

Milk prices have now been bid up to a point where dairy herds are being rebuilt. But the old days of milk production for nearby markets may never return. Today, milk goes traveling.

These Days

Up here in Sandisfield, we go in for culture in a big way; that is, those of us who do not till the soil and chop down the trees for lumber. And that goes back a long time to the days of Mark Hopkins, Oliver Wendell Holmes—not the Justice but the philosopher—Herman Melville of "Moby Dick," William Cullen Bryant, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, to say nothing of the Sedgwick clan who dominated Stockbridge as the Atlantic Monthly was the personality of Ellery Sedgwick.

So last Saturday, we foregathered at the Little Red House where Nathaniel Hawthorne conceived the Tanglewood Tales and where often Longfellow, Melville, Fanny Kemble and Hawthorne met to talk but even more to store in their memories the impress of the beauties of the Berkshires and of each other's personality.

The Little Red House has been restored externally by the National Federation of Music Clubs under the leadership of Mrs. Guy Gannett, the wife of the Maine publisher, and a gracious and devoted lady. Manning Hawthorne was there to represent his grandfather, Nathaniel, and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Dana, whose maternal grandfather was the poet and whose paternal grandfather wrote "Two Years Before the Mast," delivered a brilliant and witty address prepared as only Harry can when he takes the trouble, which is not often enough.

We were blessed with the best of Berkshire weather, as we sat in the shadow of Monument Mountain and looked across the lake and listened to Serge Koussevitzky accept the little house which is to be used as studios for musicians who come to Tanglewood to improve themselves. And this is so important because out of Tanglewood will in time come American composers, American conductors, and American artists and all the internationalism of its atmosphere will go by the board. For no one can be in this New England soil without becoming part of its rock and loam, without feeling the three centuries of America in the marrow of his bones.

Just as in the middle nineteenth century, this very place produced for this country a lasting, indigenous literature, so are we now on the threshold of finding here a lasting, indigenous American music. That indeed is a pot of gold.

As I sat upon a rock, upon which crept myrtle and rose, I could not help but think that at that very moment were gathered in Philadelphia others who also called themselves Americans but who, somehow, had been cut off at the roots, or who, coming latterly, had no depth to their roots. And while we steeped ourselves richly in the lore of our own land, they were shrieking foully against their mother country and, gazing upon her beauties, saw only nettles and thistles, while the mirage from afar was richly verdant.

Yet their curses will wither on the vine. I recalled that Balaam, when pressured to curse, sang:

"How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob, and thy tabernacles, O Israel!

"As the valleys are they spread forth, as gardens by the river's side, as the trees of lign aloes which the Lord hath planted, and as cedar trees beside the waters."

For who can curse such a country as this and who can be its enemy? How varied are the ways of its people and there are none to order them to do this and that and to have no will of their own.

Every non-New Yorker knows that the country's largest city is no place in which to live. This opinion is further confirmed by the announcement that garage rents there now average $35 a month.

Finding Relief for Flat Feet

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE person with normal feet and correct posture carries his weight as Nature intended him to—evenly distributed between the heel, the ball of the foot, and its outer side, the parts of the foot especially designed to bear it. The person with flat feet suffers because, among other things, weight distribution falls largely on parts of the foot never intended for this purpose.

The normal foot has two arches, one called the longitudinal arch and the other known as the transverse arch. The latter extends from one side of the foot to the other, just back of the toes; the former runs lengthwise of the foot and is most prominent at the instep. When these arches drop, the person is said to have flat feet.

Gradual Process

Flat feet are not acquired in a day. Usually the flattening of the arch is a gradual process in which five different stages can be distinguished. First there is a mild type of foot strain. Then the arches drop, but no other changes in the tissues develop. However, soon changes do begin to occur. Then the foot becomes fixed in the flattened position because of inflammation of the joints, and finally the condition becomes permanent.

When flattening of the arch occurs, there may be aching pain and tenderness, as well as swelling of the feet, stiffness of the muscles and calluses. As a result of the strain on the feet and faulty walking, extra strain is felt on the muscles of the knees and the buttock and pain and aching may occur in these regions, and often in the lower part of the back.

Treating Flat Feet

In the treatment of flat feet, two things are necessary. First the body weight must be transferred to the outer side of the foot and pressure symptoms must be relieved.

These things can be accomplished by massage, bathing of the feet, first in hot and then cold water, electrical treatment to stimulate the muscles of the feet and often of the calves in the legs, having the patient wear proper shoes and stockings, exercises for the feet, and rest from excessive strain or walking.

Type of Support

Supports for flat feet can also be utilized. The type of support employed will depend upon the severity of the condition. The support may be made from either leather or felt. Sponge rubber may also be used. In those cases where the condition has been present for a long time, a stiffer type of foot support made from metal may be utilized.

Manipulation to break up the bands of scar tissue that are formed may be useful when the foot is stiff and rigid; then, later on, the patient may be given exercises, and baths and electrical treatments may be employed.

Operative treatment for flat feet is used only in those instances in which the foot is fixed or rigid and all other methods of treatment have failed to give relief.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

T. Y.: I am in my early thirties. However, my hair is beginning to turn gray. Is this an indication of a deficiency in my diet?

Answer: The exact cause of early graying of the hair is not known. It is not an evidence that any particular dietary deficiency is present. There does not seem to be any treatment available for overcoming the condition. Frequently it is a family trait.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

"ROWLEY, can you let me have five hundred pounds?" Rowley stared at Lynn. She stood there, out of breath from running, her face pale, her mouth set.

He said soothingly and rather as he would speak to a horse: "There, there, ease up, old girl. What's all this about?"

"I want five hundred pounds. I could do with it myself, for that matter."

"But, Rowley, this is serious. Can't you lend me five hundred pounds?"

"I'm overdrawn as it is. That new tractor—"

"Yes, yes—she pushed aside the farming details. "But you could raise money somehow—if you had to, couldn't you?"

"What do you want it for, Lynn? Are you in some kind of a hole?"

"I want it for him—" she jerked her head backwards towards the big square house on the hill. "Hunter? Why on earth—"

"It's Mums. She's been borrowing from him. She's—she's in a bit of a jam about money."

"Yes, I expect she is," Rowley sounded sympathetic. "Damned hard lines on her. I wish I could help a bit—but I can't."

"I can't stand her borrowing money from David!"

"Hold hard, old girl. It's Rosaleen who actually has to fork out the cash. And after all, why not?"

"Why not? You say 'Why not, Rowley?'"

"I don't see why Rosaleen shouldn't come to the rescue once in a while. Old Gordon put us all in a spot by pegging out without a will. If the position is put clearly to Rosaleen she must see herself that a spot of help all around is indicated."

"You haven't borrowed from her?"

"No—well—that's different. I can't very well go and ask a woman for money. Sort of thing you don't like doing."

"Can't you see that I don't like being—being beholden to David Hunter?"

"But you're not. It isn't his money."

"That's just what it is, actually. Rosaleen's completely under his thumb."

"Oh I daresay. But it isn't his legally."

"And you won't, you can't—lend me some money?"

"Now look here, Lynn—if you were in some real jam—blackmail or debts—I might be able to sell land or stock—but it would be a pretty desperate proceeding. I'm only just keeping my head above water as it is. And what with not knowing what this Government is going to do next—hampered at every turn—snowed under with forms up to midnight trying to fill them in sometimes—it's too much for one man."

Lynn said bitterly: "Oh I know! If only Johnnie hadn't been killed—"

He shouted out: "Leave Johnnie out of it. Don't talk about that!" She stared at him, astonished. His face was red and congested. He seemed beside himself with rage.

Lynn turned away and went slowly back to the White House.

"Can't you give it back, Mums?"

"Really, Lynn darling! I went straight to the Bank with it. And then paid Arthur and Bodgham and Knebworth. Knebworth was getting quite abusive. Oh my dear, the relief! I haven't been able to sleep for nights and nights. Really, Rosaleen was most understanding and nice about it."

Lynn said bitterly: "And I suppose you'll go to her again and again now."

"I hope it won't be necessary, dear. I shall try to be very economical, you know that. But of course everything is so expensive nowadays. And it gets worse and worse."

"Yes, and we shall get worse and worse. Going on cadging."

Adela flushed.

"I don't think that's a nice way of putting it, Lynn. As I explained to Rosaleen, we had always depended on Gordon—"

"We shouldn't have. That's what's wrong, we shouldn't have," Lynn added, "He's right to despise us."

"Who despises us?"

"That odious David Hunter."

"Really," said Mrs. Marchmont with dignity, "I don't see that it can matter in the least what David Hunter thinks. Fortunately he wasn't at Furrowbank this morning—otherwise I daresay he would have influenced that girl. She's completely under his thumb, of course."

Lynn shifted from one foot to the other.

"What did you mean, Mums, when you said—that first morning I was home—if he is her brother?"

"Oh that," Mrs. Marchmont looked slightly embarrassed. "Well, there's been a certain amount of gossip, you know."

Lynn merely waited inquiringly.

Mrs. Marchmont coughed.

"That type of young woman—the adventuress type (of course poor Gordon was completely taken in)—they've usually got a—well, a young man of their own in the background. Suppose she says to Gordon she's got a brother—wires to him in Canada or wherever he was. This man turns up. How is Gordon to know whether he's her brother or not? Poor Gordon, absolutely infatuated no doubt, and believing everything she said. And so her 'brother' comes with them to England—poor Gordon quite unsuspecting."

Lynn said fiercely: "I don't believe it. I don't believe it."

Mrs. Marchmont raised her eyebrows.

"Really, my dear—"

"He's not like that. And she—she isn't either. She's a fool perhaps, but she's sweet—yes, she's really sweet. It's just people's foul minds. I don't believe it, I tell you."

Mrs. Marchmont said with dignity: "There's really no need to shout."

It was a week later that the 5:20 train drew into Warningsley Heath Station and a tall bronzed man with a knapsack got out.

On the opposite platform a cluster of golfers were waiting for the up train. The tall bearded man with the knapsack gave up his ticket and passed out of the station. He stood uncertainly for a minute or two—then he saw the signpost: Footpath to Warningsley Vale—and directed his steps that way with brisk determination.

At Long Willows Rowley Cloade had just finished making himself a cup of tea when a shadow falling across the kitchen table made him look up.

If just for a moment he thought the girl standing just inside the door was Lynn, his disappointment turned to surprise when he saw it was Rosaleen Cloade.

She was wearing a frock of some peasant material in bright broad stripes of orange and green—the artificial simplicity of which had run into more money than Rowley could ever have imagined possible.

Up to now he had always seen her dressed in expensive and somewhat tawny clothes which she wore with an artificial air—much, he had thought, as a mannequin might display dresses that did not belong to her but to the firm who employed her.

This afternoon in the broad peasant stripes of gay color, he seemed to see a new Rosaleen Cloade. Her Irish origin was more noticeable, the dark curling hair and the lovely blue eyes put in with the smutty finger. Her voice, too, had a softer Irish sound instead of the careful rather mincing tones in which she usually spoke.

"It's such a lovely afternoon," she said. "So I came for a walk."

She added: "David's gone to London."

She said it almost guiltily, then flushed and took a cigarette case out of her bag. She offered one to Rowley who shook his head, then looked round for a match to light Rosaleen's cigarette. But she was flicking unsuccessfully at an expensive-looking small gold lighter. Rowley took it from her and with one sharp movement it lit.

As she bent her head towards him to light her cigarette he noticed how long and dark the lashes were that lay on her cheek and he thought to himself:

"Old Gordon knew what he was doing..."

Rosaleen stepped back a pace and said admiringly: "That's a lovely little heifer you've got in the top field."

Top Democrats Fear Loss Of Several Southern States Industry Manpower Problem Bobs Up Due To New Draft Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—President Truman and the Southern Democrats have one thing in common in the 1948 presidential campaign. They are very much concerned over what is going to happen to the south, plus the possibility that Republicans may carry two or three southern states.

This is having two effects. It is causing Mr. Truman to try to work for more harmony by conferring with individual Democratic leaders. And it is causing a lot of southern Democrats to scrutinize the Truman bandwagon with the idea of climbing aboard.

Symptoms of the president's inward disturbance are the conferences being arranged with Democratic leaders by Senator J. Howard McGrath, Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

A further symptom of concern among southern Democrats is the announcement of Senator A. Willis Robertson, Virginia, that he would actively support Mr. Truman.

Robertson is working with Senator Harry Byrd, Virginia. Both are said to be worried that Virginia may go Republican. Fear also is expressed among southern Democrats that North Carolina and Tennessee will go Republican.

Some southerners predict that Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and possibly Florida and Arkansas and Texas may go for Dixiecrat Candidate Strom Thurmond, governor of South Carolina, who probably will also carry his own state.

THE DRAFT AND INDUSTRY—Industry is confronted anew with an old wartime headache—manpower problems arising out of the draft.

Selective Service begins Oct. 1, and it will hit employers even harder than expected. The reason is that the draft starts with 25-year-olds, and in that group are many trained workers.

Some firms have taken steps to reduce the impact of the draft through community action. The encouragement of voluntary enlistments reduces the draft quota for each community.

Other employers are dusting off many manpower techniques shelved since V-J Day. Union contracts have to be revised in many cases to conform to re-employment rights guaranteed veterans.

An employee who volunteers or is drafted is entitled to his old job back after his discharge from military service, or a position of similar seniority, status and pay.

Selective service headquarters is expected soon to announce a program for obtaining deferments for certain key workers in essential occupations.

SCREENING—If no national emergency develops and the military services are held to their present quotas, the fine screening in the peacetime draft this fall is likely to exceed anything this country has seen.

Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, the draft director, estimates that more than five million young men will be registered in order to obtain 70,000 draftees for the Army. 99 Per Cent of Draftees May Be Deferred

In other words, about 99 out of every 100 men registered will be deferred for some reason—veterans' status, marital status, useful and essential employment, a decayed tooth, a fallen arch, or almost anything else will be sufficient. Nevertheless, Hershey assures that the screening will go forward on a full wartime scale, with every man getting a thorough examination unless automatically deferred.

There are 1,250,000 25-year-olds in the country, but Hershey expects so many deferments that only 8,000 of these will be taken.

BIG CITY TROUBLES

WHENEVER officials of major cities get together to talk things over, they seem to find in common one very troublesome headache. In almost all of the states, big cities have a definitely minority representation in legislative bodies, and are engaged in a continuous quarrel with state governments over taxes and laws, mostly taxes.

The common accusation leveled at state legislatures by cities is that legislatures are dominated by rural representatives, levy taxes which hit city residents hard, but spend most of state funds in rural areas. This practice, they say, contributes to the higher tax level characteristic of city life.

In some instances conscientious revision of the representation system might help. In most states, however, any system of representation which is based on true distribution of population will produce a legislature in which rural area representatives are in the majority. The most promising remedy would seem to be a program of education on the interdependence of cities and rural areas, with the goal of a more co-operative spirit to replace bickering and tugging.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The FCC attitude toward quiz shows is a threat to free prizes.

Every man is entitled to a decent chance for life, liberty and the pursuit of an $18,000 jackpot. If it's a crime to give away money, the State department owes 99 years on a life sentence.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

"ROWLEY, can you let me have five hundred pounds?"
Rowley stared at Lynn. She stood there, out of breath from running, her face pale, her mouth set.

He said soothingly and rather as he would speak to a horse: "There, there, ease up, old girl. What's all this about?"

"I want five hundred pounds." "I could do with it myself, for that matter."

"But, Rowley, this is serious. Can't you lend me five hundred pounds?" "I'm overdrawn as it is. That new tractor—"

"Yes, yes—" she pushed aside the farming details. "But you could raise money somehow—if you had to, couldn't you?"

"What do you want it for, Lynn? Are you in some kind of a hole?" "I want it for him—"

she jerked her head backwards towards the big square house on the hill. "Hunter? Why on earth—"

"It's Mums. She's been borrowing from him. She's—she's in a bit of a jam about money."

"Yes, I expect she is," Rowley sounded sympathetic. "Darned hard lines on her. I wish I could help a bit—but I can't."

"I can't stand her borrowing money from David!" "Hold hard, old girl. It's Rosaleen who actually has to fork out the cash. And after all, why not?"

"Why not? You say 'Why not, Rowley?'" "I don't see why Rosaleen shouldn't come to the rescue once in a while. Old Gordon put us all in a spot by pegging out without a will. If the position is put clearly to Rosaleen she must see herself that a spot of help all around is indicated."

"You haven't borrowed from her?" "No—well—that's different. I can't very well go and ask a woman for money. Sort of thing you don't like doing."

"Can't you see that I don't like being—being beholden to David Hunter?" "But you're not. It isn't his money."

"That's just what it is, actually. Rosaleen's completely under his thumb."

"Oh I daresay. But it isn't his legally." "And you won't, you can't—lend me some money?"

"Now look here, Lynn—if you were in some real jam—blackmail or debts—I might be able to sell land or stock—but it would be a pretty desperate proceeding. I'm only just keeping my head above water as it is. And what with not knowing what this Government is going to do next—hampered at every turn—snowed under with forms up to midnight trying to fill them in sometimes—it's too much for one man."

Lynn said bitterly: "Oh I know! If only Johnnie hadn't been killed—"

He shouted out: "Leave Johnnie out of it. Don't talk about that!"

She stared at him, astonished. His face was red and congested. He seemed beside himself with rage.

Lynn turned away and went slowly back to the White House.

"Can't you give it back, Mums?" "Really, Lynn darling! I went straight to the Bank with it. And then paid Arthur and Bodham and Knebworth. Knebworth was getting quite abusive. Oh my dear, the relief! I haven't been able to sleep for nights and nights. Really, Rosaleen was most understanding and nice about it."

Lynn said bitterly: "And I suppose you'll go to her again and again now?"

"I hope it won't be necessary, dear. I shall try to be very economical, you know that. But of course everything is so expensive nowadays. And it gets worse and worse."

"Yes, and we shall get worse and worse. Going on cagging," Adela flushed.

"I don't think that's a nice way of putting it, Lynn. As I explained to Rosaleen, we had always depended on Gordon—"

"We shouldn't have. That's what's wrong, we shouldn't have." Lynn added, "He's right to despise us."

"Who despises us?" "That odious David Hunter."

"Really," said Mrs. Marchmont with dignity, "I don't see that it can matter in the least what David Hunter thinks. Fortunately he wasn't at Furrowbank this morning—otherwise I daresay he would have influenced that girl. She's completely under his thumb, of course."

Lynn shifted from one foot to the other.

"What did you mean, Mums, when you said—that first morning I was home—if he is her brother?"

"Oh that," Mrs. Marchmont looked slightly embarrassed. "Well, there's been a certain amount of gossip, you know."

Lynn merely waited inquiringly. Mrs. Marchmont coughed.

"That type of young woman—the adventures type (of course poor Gordon was completely taken in) they've usually got a—well, a young man of their own in the background. Suppose she says to Gordon she's got a brother—wires to him in Canada or wherever he was. This man turns up. How is Gordon to know whether he's her brother or not? Poor Gordon, absolutely infatuated no doubt, and believing everything she said. And so her 'brother' comes with them to England—poor Gordon quite unsuspecting."

Lynn said fiercely: "I don't believe it. I don't believe it!" Mrs. Marchmont raised her eyebrows.

"Really, my dear—"

"He's not like that. And she—she isn't either. She's a fool perhaps, but she's sweet—yes, she's really sweet. It's just people's foul minds. I don't believe it, I tell you."

Mrs. Marchmont said with dignity: "There's really no need to shout."

It was a week later that the 5:20 train drew into Warramsey Heath Station and a tall bronzed man with a knapsack got out.

On the opposite platform a cluster of golfers were waiting for the up train. The tall bearded man with the knapsack gave up his ticket and passed out of the station. He stood uncertainly for a minute or two—then he saw the signpost: Footpath to Warramsey Vale—and directed his steps that way with brisk determination.

At Long Willows Rowley Cloade had just finished making himself a cup of tea when a shadow falling across the kitchen table made him look up.

If just for a moment he thought the girl standing just inside the door was Lynn, his disappointment turned to surprise when he saw it was Rosaleen Cloade.

She was wearing a frock of some peasant material in bright broad stripes of orange and green—the artificial simplicity of which had run into more money than Rosaleen could ever have imagined possible.

Up to now he had always seen her dressed in expensive and somewhat towny clothes which she wore with an artificial air—much, he had thought, as a mannequin might display dresses that did not belong to her but to the firm who employed her.

This afternoon in the broad peasant stripes of gray color, he seemed to see a new Rosaleen Cloade. Her Irish origin was more noticeable, the dark curling hair and the lovely blue eyes put in with the smutty finger. Her voice, too, had a softer Irish sound instead of the careful rather mincing tones in which she usually spoke.

"It's such a lovely afternoon," she said. "So I came for a walk."

She added: "David's gone to London."

She said it almost guiltily, then flushed and took a cigarette case out of her bag. She offered one to Rowley who shook his head, then looked round for a match to light Rosaleen's cigarette. But she was flicking unsuccessfully at an expensive-looking small gold lighter. Rowley took it from her and with one sharp movement it lit.

As she bent her head towards him to light her cigarette he noticed how long and dark the lashes were that lay on her cheek and he thought to himself:

"Old Gordon knew what he was doing..." Rosaleen stepped back a pace and said admiringly: "That's a lovely little heifer you've got in the top field."

Inside WASHINGTON

Top Democrats Fear Loss
Of Several Southern States
Industry Manpower Problem
Bobs Up Due To New Draft
Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—President Truman and the Southern Democrats have one thing in common in the 1948 presidential campaign. They are very much concerned over what is going to happen to the south, plus the possibility that Republicans may carry two or three southern states.

This is having two effects. It is causing Mr. Truman to try to work for more harmony by conferring with individual Democratic leaders. And it is causing a lot of southern Democrats to scrutinize the Truman bandwagon with the idea of climbing aboard.

Symptoms of the president's inward disturbance are the conferences being arranged with Democratic leaders by Senator J. Howard McGrath, Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

A further symptom of concern among southern Democrats is the announcement of Senator A. Willis Robertson, Virginia, that he would actively support Mr. Truman.

Robertson is working with Senator Harry Byrd, Virginia. Both are said to be worried that Virginia may go Republican. Fear also is expressed among southern Democrats that North Carolina and Tennessee will go Republican.

Some southerners predict that Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and possibly Florida and Arkansas and Texas may go for Dixiecrat Candidate Strom Thurmond, governor of South Carolina, who probably will also carry his own state.

President Truman

THE DRAFT AND INDUSTRY—Industry is confronted anew with an old wartime headache—manpower problems arising out of the draft.

Selective Service begins Oct. 1, and it will hit employers even harder than expected. The reason is that the draft starts with 25-year-olds, and in that group are many trained workers.

Some firms have taken steps to reduce the impact of the draft through community action. The encouragement of voluntary enlistments reduces the draft quota for each community.

Other employers are dusting off many manpower techniques shelved since V-J Day. Union contracts have to be revised in many cases to conform to re-employment rights guaranteed veterans.

An employee who volunteers or is drafted is entitled to his old job back after his discharge from military service, or a position of similar seniority, status and pay.

Selective service headquarters is expected soon to announce a program for obtaining deferments for certain key workers in essential occupations.

SCREENING—If no national emergency develops and the military services are held to their present quotas, the fine screening in the peacetime draft this fall is likely to exceed anything this country has seen.

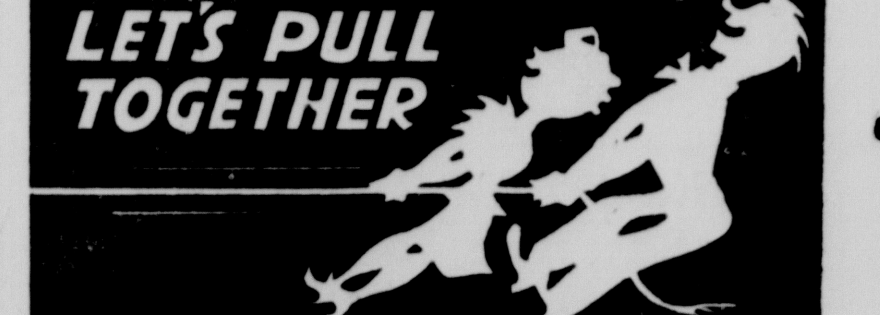

Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, the draft director, estimates that more than five million young men will be registered in order to obtain 70,000 draftees for the Army. 99 Per Cent of Draftees May Be Deferred

YOUNGSTOWN LADY FEELS LIKE NEW PERSON - LOST 25 POUNDS

"I have not dieted and have lost 25 pounds with Rennie," writes Martha Hall, 714 Detroit, Youngstown, Ohio. "Before taking Rennie I was nervous, felt tired and in poor health. Since taking Rennie my nervousness is gone and never in my life have I had more energy nor have I felt better."

Rennie is the original grapefruit recipe for taking off ugly fat. It's simple. Just go to your drugist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennie. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough unsweetened grapefruit juice to fill the bottle, then take just two tablespoons twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves—if you're tired and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles; just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennie, no starvation diet, no printed diet list to buy, no expensive vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry. For you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product. Insist upon genuine Rennie.

Kaws Show Hot, But Campaign Appears Late

By International News Service
The hottest thing in the American Association at the present moment is Dick Bartell's Kansas City club.

The Kaws, with two victories yesterday, ran their string of consecutive victories to five in a row and have won eight of their last 10 games.

Unfortunately, the 1947 champs started from too far back to cut much ice in the present race. They have no chance to get into the playoffs, being in sixth place, 10 games out of fourth.

Yesterday, the Blues licked Louisville, 8 to 1 and 5 to 4. Bill Woop pitched a nice six-hitter in the first game.

League Leading Indianapolis broke even with Minneapolis. The Millers pounded out a 10-to-5 victory in the opener, and the Indians came back in the nightcap to win, 4 to 3, in eight innings.

Les Fleming's 22nd homer and a pinch round-tripper by Roy Weatherly carried the Tribe to victory in the nightcap.

Glenn Elliott came up with a two-hitter and Don Grate allowed only five as Milwaukee defeated Toledo twice, 2 to 0 and 10 to 1. Marv Rickert of the Brewers hit two consecutive homers in the second game.

Columbus and St. Paul split their twin bill. The Apostles slugged out a 12-to-9 first game decision, but dropped the afterpiece, 4 to 1. Harvey Haddix of the Birds granted only four hits in the second game.

The regular purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds is the most beneficial lay-away plan ever presented.

Isaly's Run Up 15-4 Decision In District Softball Tourney

Isalys softball team swamped Portsmouth Central Christian Church 15-4 Sunday afternoon for its second district tournament win. The game was called at the end of six innings because of the 11-run margin.

The Isaly crew scored at least two runs every inning for the 15-run total, while the Churchmen scored their four runs in one inning.

Ansel Roof, Isaly leftfielder, poled the longest hit in the game, a homerun out of the park. Dick Wellington, Isaly pitcher-manager, gained second place batting honors with two three-base hits

800 See County Olympiad; 103 Lads Vie For Honors

More than 800 Pickaway County Saturday night saw a preview of the National Junior Olympics when 103 countywide youngsters showed their wares in the track and field elimination contest on the Fairgrounds.

Cooke Metzger of Williamsport took individual honors by clinching three first place ribbons in the 75-yard dash, 220-yard dash and running broad-jump.

In neither of the running events was Metzger challenged for the lead as he outstripped his closest competitors by at least five yards. However, Metzger's broadjump ribbon was hard earned and was awarded on a bare one-inch margin over Ted Raymond of Circleville.

While Olympiad officials scanned the field for winning prospects to be entered in the national meet on the Baldwin and Wallace college track Aug. 28, no other boys loomed bright in the top honors column.

THEY ARE Tom Phillips and Jerry Rooney of Circleville. Phillips took two individual first place ribbons in the 60-yard low hurdles, running highjump and was a member of Circleville's winning half-mile shuttle relay team.

Rooney, also a double first-place individual winner in the 60-yard dash, and 12-inch baseball throw for boys 12 and 13, was a member of Circleville's winning 240-yard shuttle relay team.

Other first place winners were Jim McConnell of Circleville, 50-yard dash; Fielding Massie, Walnut Township, standing broadjump; Joe Hill, Circleville, 12-inch baseball throw; Dave Coffland, Circleville, highjump; Ronald Wilson, Ashville, running broadjump; and Cecil Sowers, Circleville, shotput.

From Saturday night's runoff meet, 15 youths won berths on the Cleveland bound team to represent Pickaway County. Approximately 10 alternates will be chosen from the list to bolster the ranks. Coordinator John Heiskell announced.

Both Heiskell and Olympics Chairman John Hardin expressed their pleasure over the success of the county's first annual meet.

Plans already are under way for the track and field meet next year. Hardin said it was his hope to glean the best prospects from the district schools and have them begin training early for national competition in 1949. Enthusiasm in the county meet was first evident when a great round of applause rang out from the spectator gallery during the parade of participants officially opening the sports event.

SPEECHES of welcome were made by Judge William D. Radcliff of common pleas court; Russ Palm, chairman of the Pickaway County Agriculture Society; Elmer Malone, mayor of Ashville; and W. D. Heiskell, mayor of Williamsport.

The latter two officials served as honorary judges and awarded the ribbons to winners of the final events.

Field judges—Harold Stonerock, Walter Harris, Cecil Andrews, Jack Hix and Bob Moon.

Heiskell pointed out that winners in the 10 and 11 age bracket will not be eligible for participation in the national event. He said this ruling was the outcome of a recent meeting of coaches and sponsors in Cleveland.

Only 1 Sprinter Shows Up For Snow's Challenge

Only one of the seven original tracksters who accepted Paul (Snow) Seymour's challenge-to-all-comers for a 440-yard sprint, showed up Saturday night.

He was Rod Heine of Circleville. The pair started at the three-quarter pole on the darkened backstretch of Pickaway Fairgrounds track and huffed and puffed around to the Junior Olympics finish line fronting the grandstand.

Snow, the old master, was winner by about five strides. Seymour, still convinced he "can whop all comers," said, "I let Heine set the pace and he almost had me. It's probably a good thing the other six guys failed to show up; Heine and I would have given them a lot of dust."

Sluggers, Hurlers Stage Battle To Gain Flag Scramble Crowns

NEW YORK, Aug. 9—The two red-hot pennant scrambles shared interest with two other major league races today.

Ralph Kiner and John Mize, who staged a thrilling duel in the big league homerun derby last year, have two other sluggers on their hands this season. Kiner is leading with 28, followed by Mize, Hank Sauer and Stan Musial, each with 27.

Several pitchers are battling to become this year's first 20-game winner. Both Hal Newhouser of the Tigers and Larry Jansen of the Giants hit the three-quarter mark yesterday to lead the pack with 15 victories apiece.

In the homerun department, Musial's 27th circuit clout, coming after the Cardinals, had beaten the Phillies, 4 to 1, and enabled them to take second place in the National League away from Brooklyn.

HOMERUNS, two by Gil Hodges and one by Jackie Robinson, accounted for eight runs and gave Brooklyn a 10-to-2 triumph over Cincinnati. Joe Hatten held the Reds to six hits.

Jansen, the New York mound ace, failed to go the route but was credited with a 6-to-2 decision over Pittsburgh. The Pirates came from behind to take the nightcap, 5 to 4, thanks to a bad error by Mize.

None of these triumphs made much of a dent in the lead of the Boston Braves, who trounced the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 3, before 41,527, the third largest paid attendance in the history of Braves Field.

Bill Voiselle went the route for the winners.

In the American League, the pace-setting Cleveland Indians struck a devastating blow at the pennant hopes of the third-place New York Yankees by beating them twice, 8 to 6 and 2 to 1.

Eddie Robinson was the big hero for the Indians with three homeruns. His first helped tie the score in the seventh inning of the first game when the Indians tallied five runs. His second, coming with a man on base in the eighth, won the game, and he walloped a third homer in the nightcap. The attendance was 73,484.

Bob Porterfield, Yankee rookie from Newark, pitched brilliantly in the second game but had to retire when hit on the index finger by a line drive.

A FOUR-RUN rally which included Hank Majeski's double enabled the second-place Philadelphia Athletics to down the St. Louis Browns, 7 to 5.

Mel Parnell pitched the Red Sox to an 8-to-1 cakewalk over the Chicago White Sox, but Boston muffed a chance to take third place away from the Yankees by losing the nightcap, 2 to 1, in 11 innings.

Detroit trounced Washington twice, 5 to 3 and 6 to 5, Newhouser's triumph coming in the opener.

Mrs. Zaharias coupled a four-under 72 to her earlier round of 77 to lead Patty Berg of Minneapolis and Amateur Carol Diringer of Tiffin, who were bracketed with par 152's in runnerup positions. Peggy Kirk of Findlay had a 153 for fourth place.

Friece Holding On To Title In Golf Tourney

Bob Friece, last year's Pickaway Country Club champion, successfully defended his title in the first round of tourney matches Sunday by defeating Joe Brink five and four.

Results of other first round matches show that John Woods showed Don Henry two and one; John Schiff defeated C. Ray Barnhart one up; Art Marshall beat Rod Heine two up; and Tom Eveland bested Walter Heine one up on the 21st green.

The club championship tourney this year is to be match play, pairings having been made last week from the 15 qualifiers and defending champion. A time limit has been set on the matches, with all first round play to terminate Thursday.

Matches which have to be made up before Thursday are Berlin Blankenship vs. Bob Moon; John Jenkins vs. Harley Weir; and Lovel Blankenship vs. Felix Dore.

A SELECTIVE ball mixed foursome contest was held at the Pickaway Country Club Sunday, with Mrs. Robert Brehmer Jr. and Art Marshall teaming together to win the title. Their winning score was 59.

At the end of nine holes of play, the winning pair was tied with Mrs. Dudley Carpenter and John Moore. A three-hole playoff gave Mrs. Brehmer and Marshall the win.

Sluggers, Hurlers Stage Battle To Gain Flag Scramble Crowns

NEW YORK, Aug. 9—The two red-hot pennant scrambles shared interest with two other major league races today.

Ralph Kiner and John Mize, who staged a thrilling duel in the big league homerun derby last year, have two other sluggers in their hands this season. Kiner is leading with 28, followed by Mize, Hank Sauer and Stan Musial, each with 27.

Several pitchers are battling to become this year's first 20-game winner. Both Hal Newhouser of the Tigers and Larry Jansen of the Giants hit the three-quarter mark yesterday to lead the pack with 15 victories apiece.

In the homerun department, Musial's 27th circuit clout, coming after the Cardinals, had beaten the Phillies, 4 to 1, gave St. Louis another win 4 to 3, and enabled them to take second place in the National League away from Brooklyn.

HOMERUNS, two by Gil Hodges and one by Jackie Robinson, accounted for eight runs and gave Brooklyn a 10-to-2 triumph over Cincinnati. Joe Hatten held the Reds to six hits.

Jansen, the New York mound ace, failed to go the route but was credited with a 6-to-2 decision over Pittsburgh. The Pirates came from behind to take the nightcap, 5 to 4, thanks to a bad error by Mize.

None of these triumphs made much of a dent in the lead of the Boston Braves, who trounced the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 3, before 41,527, the third largest paid attendance in the history of Braves Field.

Bill Voiselle went the route for the winners.

In the American League, the pace-setting Cleveland Indians struck a devastating blow at the pennant hopes of the third-place New York Yankees by beating them twice, 8 to 6 and 2 to 1.

Eddie Robinson was the big hero for the Indians with three homeruns. His first helped tie the score in the seventh inning of the first game when the Indians tallied five runs. His second, coming with a man on base in the eighth, won the game, and he walloped a third homer in the nightcap. The attendance was 73,484.

Bob Porterfield, Yankee rookie from Newark, pitched brilliantly in the second game but had to retire when hit on the index finger by a line drive.

A FOUR-RUN rally which included Hank Majeski's double enabled the second-place Philadelphia Athletics to down the St. Louis Browns, 7 to 5.

Mel Parnell pitched the Red Sox to an 8-to-1 cakewalk over the Chicago White Sox, but Boston muffed a chance to take third place away from the Yankees by losing the nightcap, 2 to 1, in 11 innings.

Detroit trounced Washington twice, 5 to 3 and 6 to 5. New-houser's triumph coming in the opener.

Differences In U. S. Alphabetical Farm Programs Detailed By Boggs

Pickaway County agriculture officials this week took time out from routine administration duties to explain the alphabetical farm programs of PMA, CCC, AAA and ACP.

John G. Boggs, county Agriculture Adjustment Administration chairman voiced the opinion of many top agency officials when he said:

"A lot of people get rather confused by the symbols used for the various governmental agencies, and many farmers do not know the meaning of the symbols for the agricultural programs for their interest."

He explained that PMA or Production and Marketing Administration was organized in the Summer of 1945. It was a consolidation of several separate agencies operating within the U. S. department of agriculture.

Te consolidation was effected, Boggs said, to increase the operating efficiency, obtain over-all coordination of production and marketing functions and provide a greater reflection of farmer thinking on both production and marketing.

BY BRINGING the different offices under one head, recommendations of farmers now have a place in the development of

Inmate Escapes With Singers

Cleveland, Aug. 9—Cleveland police scoured the city today for Dolton Z. Menzies, 25-year-old Chicagoan charged with grand larceny, who escaped from city jail by mingling with a group of mission singers.

Special police details were stationed at all railroad and bus stations in an effort to capture the fugitive.

Menzies, held for the theft of at least five watches, cash estimated at more than $1,000 and numerous other items from Cleveland hotels, escaped under mysterious circumstances as the mission singers visited the jail yesterday.

Eggs Are Tossed In Price Display

FRANKFURT, Aug. 9—Bavarian housewives found eggs too high priced for eating today but not for throwing.

Demonstrating against rising food prices, Munich women invaded the market place and scrambled the 10-cent eggs on the shirt-fronts of the farmers trying to sell them.

The farmers, oblivious to the issue that started the quarrel, retaliated by throwing eggs at the housewives. They were outnumbered and forced to retreat, leaving raw omelets splattered about the market, but no fresh eggs for sale.

Cocklebur Seeds Poison Porkers

Young cocklebur seedlings will poison pigs, according to veterinarians at Iowa State college. The danger of cocklebur poisoning is greater this year because of short pastures.

With grass short, pigs will be tempted to eat young cockleburs in search of green feed. Best remedy is to keep hogs out of fields containing cocklebur seedlings until they are eliminated.

marketing programs just as in production programs. Boggs said the farmer-elected committees are a part of PMA.

PMA, one of the largest of the groups, has nine commodity branches, six functional branches, five staff branches and 50 state and insular offices.

In addition there are 2,988 county agriculture offices and 34,134 community conservation committees.

This committee is separate from the CCC or Commodity Credit Corporation which is part of PMA. However, Boggs explained, the administrator of PMA also is president of CCC.

The job of PMA is to administer the ACP or Agricultural Conservation Program. Meanwhile, the county chairman continued,

Landon Lashes U.S. Diplomats

ESTES PARK, Colo., Aug. 9—Charges that the United States is "fumbling and bumbling" in its foreign policy were leveled today at the Truman administration by Alfred M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential candidate.

The Kansan also characterized Secretary of State Marshall as "plainly inadequate" for his job and accused the administration of "backing and filling" in the present crisis in Germany. Landon said:

"We just aren't employing diplomacy any more. Our foreign affairs are being run like an Army. Secretary Marshall is just a regular Army soldier who doesn't know any different."

CIO To Ignore Ohio Elections

CINCINNATI, Aug. 9—The CIO will sit out this year's Ohio gubernatorial election, but there was an indication today it will go down the line for President Truman.

Speakers at the state Political Action Committee meeting here yesterday bitterly criticized the labor records of Gov. Thomas J. Herbert and former Gov. Frank J. Lausche, and backed away at Presidential Candidates Thomas E. Dewey and Henry A. Wallace.

The 80th session of the U. S. Congress also got its knocks.
